

Public Hearing Planned

SamTrans Acts To Take Over Northgate

The San Mateo County Transit District Tuesday set the wheels in motion for a last resort method of taking over the financially troubled Northgate Transit Co., Inc. SamTrans has called a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 22 at City Hall in Daly City on a proposal to exercise its powers of eminent domain to acquire the bus line.

In calling for the hearings, SamTrans said it is reluctantly using the condemnation procedure to take over the district, a procedure that would get SamTrans in service in the Daly City area as soon as possible.

Northgate operates in Daly City and in parts of South San Francisco, Colma and San Francisco.

Fare Hike Okayed

Northgate Transit Co. Inc., which serves sections of San Mateo County and Daly City, was granted a 5-cent fare increase in bus fares Tuesday to offset increased insurance costs.

The state Public Utilities Commission said it would provide an additional $45,000 to the owner-drivers of the bus line, that increases their average net wage by about $1 per hour to $4.04 per hour.

SamTrans said it decided to exercise its eminent domain rights following the rejection by Northgate of SamTrans' initial offer to purchase the Northgate's equipment. The bid was based on an independent appraisal of the company's assets, and Northgate has not submitted a written counter-proposal.

Instead, Northgate has refused to meet with SamTrans and has openly invited the district to initiate condemnation proceedings before the California Public Utilities Commission, SamTrans charges.

That would give the PUC the right to set the sales price for Northgate and would probably end all efforts to arrive at a negotiated price.

At the same time, about a week ago the PUC granted Northgate a four-month extension (to Dec. 31) of a six-month probationary certificate, which was due to expire Aug. 31. The license was to be extended only if Northgate had showed evidence that it had taken steps to improve its equipment and service.

The PUC granted the extension even though the City Attorney of Daly City on Aug. 17 called for a termination of the temporary certificate because Northgate allegedly failed to keep records, maintain good service and schedules, maintain continuous insurance coverage and a number of other items.

SamTrans also said that it learned that the PUC was expected to grant Northgate a five-cent fare increase Tuesday. This increase was to be granted despite testimony by the PUC's accounting staff that no fare increase is justified in light of the "chaotic state" of Northgate's books.

SamTrans claims that in taking these actions, the PUC has abandoned its posture of neutrality. SamTrans says it "wonders what impact this will have on the taxpayer whose dollars will be spent in the district's acquisition of Northgate."

In calling for the condemnation proceedings, SamTrans says it is not trying to get around paying fair market value for the bus line. It has also offered to hire all the drivers and the general manager of Northgate and increase their job benefits.

"Weighing each of these factors and lacking any support from the PUC to arrive at a negotiated settlement, the district is compelled to follow the only alternative available — and that is to set the wheels in motion for condemning and taking possession of Northgate's assets through its eminent domain powers," SamTrans officials said.

"Even though we may be surrendering to a third party — the PUC — determination of the damages due, we will not surrender our goal of leadership in providing all parts of this county improved transit service," the officials said.

Delay in Selection Of SSF City Manager

Despite earlier plans to name a new South San Francisco city manager by Sept. 15, Mayor Leo Padreddi said it now appears a manager will not be selected until the middle of October. "We decided not to rush it," Padreddi said. The position has been vacant since mid-June.

There were 98 applications for the $33,000-a-year job.

Padreddi said each of the five councilmen evaluated all the applications and resumes during the last two weeks.

On Friday, each councilman was to have selected 10 applications as the top contenders.

Padreddi said those choices will be compiled and the top 10 to 20 candidates will be asked to appear before the council in an interview.

Approximately 90 per cent of the applications submitted for the vacancy were from persons out of state.

The absence of response from California administrators had been anticipated by city officials.

South San Francisco has had four different acting and permanent city managers since 1970. The heavy turnover of city managers along with City Council discord over the last few years was expected to have an effect on the number of local applications for the South-San-Francisco position.

The council began its search for a new manager in June after firing Edward See MANAGER, Page Two

Tax Hike Vote Bill Is Signed

Gov. Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown has signed into law an emergency measure allowing Broadmoor to hold a special election on Nov. 2 to determine whether or not residents want to increase their property taxes.

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy sponsored the bill, AB-4465, after meeting with residents of Broadmoor and listening to their pleas for financial assistance.

The law had been passed unanimously in the Legislature two weeks ago. On Aug. 21, Governor Brown signed it.

The new law allows voters of the financially troubled Broadmoor Police Protection District to vote on whether they would be willing to pay up to double their present taxes to support the district as it now exists.

They now pay 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

If the measure fails at the ballot box, many observers feel the community is doomed and neighboring Daly City will gobble it up.

Funds Drying Up for Centers

If the Pacifica and Half Moon Bay Information and Referral Centers don't come up with additional funding in the next few days, they may face a shutdown by the county Board of Supervisors.

The two centers together have received $36,000 for 1976-77 in revenue-sharing funds from the supervisors.

However, Don Heath, social services director of revenue sharing, said there are some doubts the two centers can provide useful services with that amount.

If not, Heath's staff may be forced to recommend that the appropriation for those two centers be eliminated.

"The low level of funding reflects a strong dissatisfaction on the part of the Board of Supervisors in trying to really determine if the centers are doing their job," Heath said.

Other centers, he pointed out, received about $40,000 apiece.

The two Coastside centers are administered by the Coastside Community Services and Migrant Education Center. The $38,000 must be split between them.

The Pacifica center's community organizer, Armando Olivas, pleaded with the Pacifica City Council last week to support the center.

The councilmen agreed to write letters to county officials asking that the Pacifica center not be shut down.

Olivas said the Half Moon Bay and Pacifica centers had $46,000 to operate last year.

The county health and welfare department had asked that the Coastside offices get $60,000 for 1976-77.

Olivas said it is his impression that the Coast- See CENTERS, Page Two

Fasanaro Escapes Jail Term

Matteo V. Fasanaro, the former college official who pleaded "no contest" to compounding a felony, Tuesday was ordered to perform 500 hours of uncompensated public service work.

Sentence was imposed by Superior Court Judge Alan W. Haverty in Redwood City following an emotional plea by Fasanaro's attorney, Lois Scampini, who insisted that her client was guilty of no crime.

Her argument, which brought tears to Fasanaro's eyes, followed a plea by Asst. Dist. Atty. J. Robert Courshon for Judge Haverty to sentence Fasanaro to jail.

DON'T WAIT TOO LONG

Too often, says Municipal Court Clerk Richard Liberty (right, below), people wait too long to file their suit. He's shown examining a file of recent small claims that's bulging at the seams. Christine Escoffier (left, above) and Tillie O'Toole handle the initial steps of small claim filings in South San Francisco. Mrs. Escoffier said the clerks help assist confused plaintiffs and distribute general information about filings to all court participants.

Increase In Small Claims

By JANET PARKER

You brought your new sports coat — stained by spaghetti sauce — to the cleaners. It comes back looking like a second-hand store reject.

The little boutique downtown refuses to take back an $85 "exclusive" dress — that fell apart at the seams the first time it was worn.

The landlord has thrown you out on your ear with no explanation and now you want your $100 deposit back.

What's a person to do? Many who feel they have been cheated in one way or another only complain and complain and complain.

But, others — who are simply fed up with what they believe are unwarranted financial losses — are taking their case to small claims court.

In fact, cases in the North County Municipal Court have increased significantly from 2,395 in 1973-74 to 2,797 in 1974-75.

Cases in the southern and central county also are increasing. More than 5,000 cases were filed in those two districts in 1974-75 — 400 cases more than the previous year.

"People aren't sitting back and taking it, so to speak, as they did so much in the past," said Traffic Referee Joseph Gruber who hears small claims in North County.

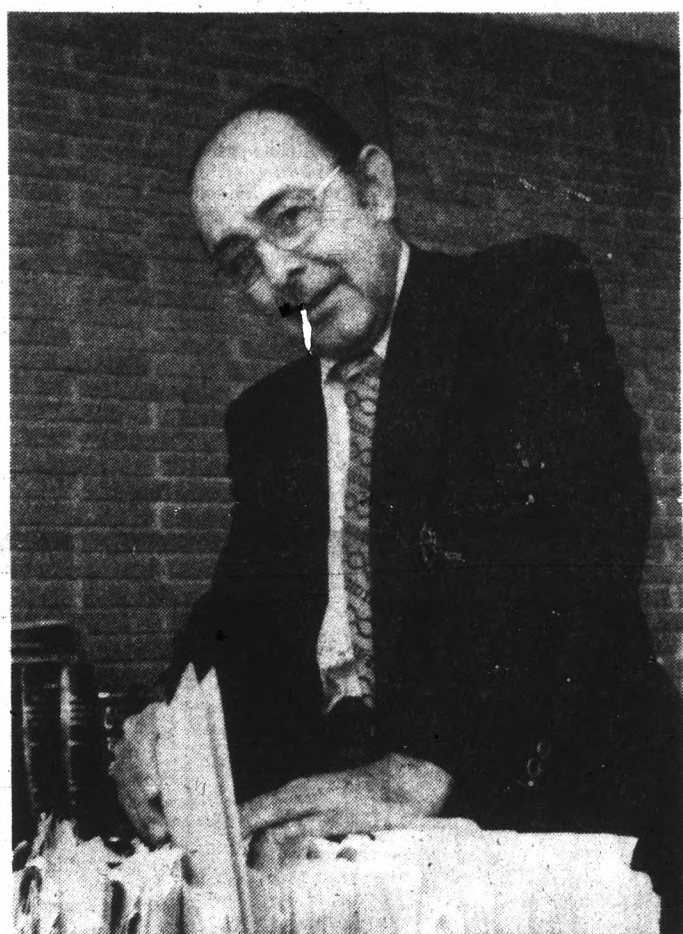

An increasing awareness of legal rights, increasing attorney fees and the growing importance of every dollar spent on merchandise and services has turned many people to small claims courts, Gruber said.

"A person today can't afford to kiss off $500," Gruber said. The need to recover that money may be even more prominent in the North County where more poor and middle income families live, he said.

Anyone who has a claim for $500 or less can sue in small claims court, according to Municipal Court Clerk Richard Liberty.

Legislation has allowed the ceiling on small claims court damages to slide upward from the days when it was called "Poor Man's Court" and more than $50 be recovered, he said.

Now, Gruber said, many persons who have claims for $1,000 or more are paring down that amount so they can avoid attorney fees and try their own case in small claims court.

It's a simple procedure to initiate a suit. It costs $2 to file and an additional $1.50 to have that claim served by mail.

Win your case and you usually win court costs, too.

After the claim is served, both parties are scheduled for their day in court and the conflict is at the hands of the judge.

Sixty cases are heard every week in the South San Francisco courthouse — 15 each on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

The complaints run the gamut of legal and consumer problems — faulty merchandise, non-payment of rent, charge account customers who fail to pay their bills, newspaper subscribers who fail to pay their newspaper carriers, and automobile accidents where insurance coverage is not involved.

A jeans-clad young woman was in Judge Charles Becker's court last week carrying a leather coat over her arm.

Her complaint? The cleaners to which she brought the $157.15 garment not only failed to get out the liquor stain but ruined the coat as well.

But Judge Becker wasn't convinced the coat was ruined beyond use by the cleaners.

"This is a typical case where neither party has given me the information I need," Becker said. The court, he said, couldn't hold the cleaners responsible simply because the liquor left a stain.

"But Your Honor, the fact is they never notified me there might be a problem. They're expensive leather cleaners. They should know there would be a problem," the young woman argued.

Judge Becker's verdict? The coat would be sent to an expert cleaner contracted by the court to determine if the coat was indeed ruined.

Their determination will be returned to the judge along with the coat in a few weeks and the judgment then will be made.

Many auto accidents come before the court, Liberty said. And it's often one person's word against another — a matter of who is more credible in the courtroom.

In one case before Judge Becker last week, a man charged that a couple backed into his own car while he was sitting in the parking lot of a Pacifica restaurant.

The couple responded that they merely "tapped" the plaintiff's car. —See CLAIMS, Page Two

Woman Held

Up at Center —Purse Taken

A San Francisco woman was robbed at knifepoint in the parking lot of Serramonte Shopping Center Monday as hundreds of shoppers, unaware of what was happening, passed by, police reported.

Police said the victim, Dora Moukios, 60, was walking toward the center when a man threatened her with a knife, grabbed her purse containing some $40 in cash and identification and fled in a car driven by a woman companion.

The getaway car was described as a blue two-door Mustang.

Broadmoor Resident

$4,500 Firearms Loss

A Broadmoor man Sunday reported the theft of some $4,500 in firearms and ammunition from his Louvaine Drive home, police disclosed Monday.

The theft apparently occurred late Saturday afternoon, however it was not reported to Broadmoor police until Sunday, a department spokesman said.

A 12-year-old neighbor of the victim said he observed the family's cat inside the house and became suspicious because the cat was never allowed inside during the absence of the victim.

The boy alerted another neighbor who had a key to the home.

The victim, James Scott, of 1843 Louvaine Drive, Broadmoor was on vacation at the time of the incident, police said.

Scott is an amateur gun collector, it was understood. He not only collects firearms, but antique watches as well, police said.

Entry to the home was made by prying open a kitchen window, investigating officer Robert Habermas reported.

Police were very cautious in releasing information surrounding the case.

Calls to the Broadmoor Police Department following issuance of an all-points bulletin alerting Bay Area law enforcement agencies to the theft of the weapons Monday, failed to affirm the incident even occurred.

It was not until more than a day after the incident was reported to police that sketchy details of the case were released.

Stolen was a .32 caliber handgun, .44 caliber handgun, several rifles, a shotgun and "some antique pocket watches," police said.

Also, a quantity of ammunition for the weapons was taken, police said.

Police also have a description of what they believe to be the car used in the theft and some evidence found at the scene.

Claims

His car, they said, was parked four feet out into the road.

The charges flew with the plaintiff and the defendants each alleging the other had been drinking and the plaintiff finally flatly saying the couple was lying.

Their confrontation forced Becker to ask them to "stick to the facts" and he finally awarded judgment to the plaintiff for $300.

"Can I have a check now?" the determined plaintiff asked.

But small claims court participants shouldn't expect to make a quick buck, Liberty said.

Collecting, court officials say, isn't as easy as demanding a check. "They always say, 'alright, when do I get my money,'" Liberty said. "You get your money when you can."

The defendants — if ordered to pay by the judge — has 20 days to come up with the money and close the case.

On the 21st day, if the claim is still unpaid, the plaintiff must initiate steps to get the money — or kiss his $300 goodbye.

Liberty said the person who won a judgment must locate some assets that belong to the person he sued. Then, it's possible to get a writ of execution from the court and claim a portion of wages, bank accounts or other property belonging to the defendant.

Basically, it's up to the plaintiff to locate assets of the defendant," Liberty said.

"Some people are pretty clever at concealing their assets," he said.

But sometimes there's no way possible to obtain the money — no matter how strong a case was presented in court.

"If they have nothing, you can't get anything," Gruber said. Defendants who are transients pose a particular problem. Certain property is exempt from attachments and persons on welfare can't have their welfare check claimed by the court.

Is it all worth it?

"If you want to go to small claims court, forget it," said Carmelina Gil of Daly City whose experience in small claims court turned sour.

She sued several years ago after an auto accident. She said she was hit broadside in a parking lot and, "I was wondering how I ever lived through it."

But either the judge didn't believe her or her case was a weak one. She not only lost but the woman she sued ended up getting a big settlement from Mrs. Gil's insurance company.

Undaunted by his mother's experience, her 14-year-old son Russell also took his case to court recently and won.

Young Gil sued a subscriber on his paper route who failed to pay a $37.50 bill.

"I felt it was a waste of time for him to go there," Mrs. Gil said. "I told him 'Russ, you won't see that money.'" She was right. The money is yet to surface.

But most of the small claim plaintiffs are satisfied — especially those who won.

Rufus Williams of Pacifica was infuriated after a van line lost his $500 typewriter when he moved here from Texas.

He fumed for two or three months before a friend advised him to go to small claims court.

"I said I couldn't lose anything," he said. "The principle was what really made me upset." He won $400 — probably because of the depreciated value of the typewriter, Williams said.

Of course, he thinks it was all worth the time and trouble of appearing in court. He received a $400 check from the van line a few days ago.

Suits involving San Francisco International Airport are channeled through the North County courthouse.

Airline patrons sue because they believe their luggage is lost or because the contents of their baggage is damaged.

A Daly City man won $490 from an airline when his baggage was lost.

Ruth and Leo Megary, also of Daly City, sued an airline when they found that $120 was stolen from their luggage.

The airline representative, in court, argued that the parcels had not been locked. But the Megary's still won $101.

Plaintiffs don't always get as much as they asked for, Gruber said, because they may be partly at fault or negligent.

Tom Adams of Legal Aide in Daly City said more Legal Aide clients are being referred to small claims courts in recent years.

"In the general public there is an increasing awareness that they have legal rights," Adams said. "I think more people are becoming accustomed to demanding to know why something has happened to them."

Years ago, he said, people would get kicked out of their apartments by landlords, have their cars destroyed in accidents and get faulty merchandise from a store without making a fuss.

"They'd never even think to see an attorney," Adams said.

Doris Olsen of Lawyer's Reference in Redwood City said she'd noticed an increase in the number of referrals to small claims court in recent years.

"People are much more willing — and anxious — to stand up for their rights," she said. After a half-hour consultation with a lawyer for $10, a prospective client can determine if he or she might be better off fighting his or her case in small claims court.

Small claims is a procedure that takes only 10 or 15 minutes out of the day.

Court officials advise small claims participants to prepare their cases — either by writing an outline or a complete speech, the day before court.

"The judge doesn't want to hear all your gripes against the defendant," Adams said. Be clear and concise and organized, he said.

And be prepared with evidence — photographs, copies of lease agreements, receipts or witnesses, if available.

How to Fight AND Switch

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Mimi Whitney, co-founder of the Save San Bruno Mountain group and one of the more vocal opponents to development on the mountain, has joined the staff of Southern California developer Byron Laskey.

Laskey is trying to put together a multi-million-dollar development package in the Sierra Point area of Brisbane.

The Laskey proposal would incorporate commercial, apartment and recreational facilities.

For several months Laskey has made appearances before the Brisbane City

She calls herself "a facilitator" who understands the problems of both Laskey and the city.

Asked if her new role as a developer's representative compromises her earlier stands against development of San Bruno Mountain (which adjoins the so-called "Sierra Point project"), Ms. Whitney said, "Heavens, no."

Ms. Whitney said she still is opposed to development of San Bruno Mountain as presented by Visitation Associates, the joint venture group formed by Crocker Land Co., Amfac Corp. and Forest-McKesson.

And she still opposes Visitation's general manager, Robert Follett.

Follett mapped the strategy for the experts who testified before the San Mateo County Planning Commission and, subsequently, the Board of Supervisors during hearings on the mountain development.

Ms. Whitney headed the opposing forces in the battle over San Bruno Mountain.

Finally, the supervisors, on a 3-2 vote, approved the plan after excluding the "Saddle Area" portion from the development — the "heart" of the proposal, according to Follett.

Now, she represents Laskey at various Brisbane council sessions.

Her role as a "facilitator" is invaluable to Laskey, she feels, inasmuch "as I'm the only one (connected with the project) who is here... the only one he (Laskey) can listen to."

Laskey, she said, came to her at the end of June and asked if she would work for him.

He eventually appointed her assistant project planner, Ms. Whitney said.

"I asked him if he was trying to buy me off. He said 'No.' He said that he has a sensitive project (at Sierra Point) and needed someone with an environmental approach to represent him here (in Brisbane)."

Laskey listens to new ideas, Ms. Whitney said.

"Follett wouldn't listen. Follett is a symbol of the developer of 20 years ago," Ms. Whitney said.

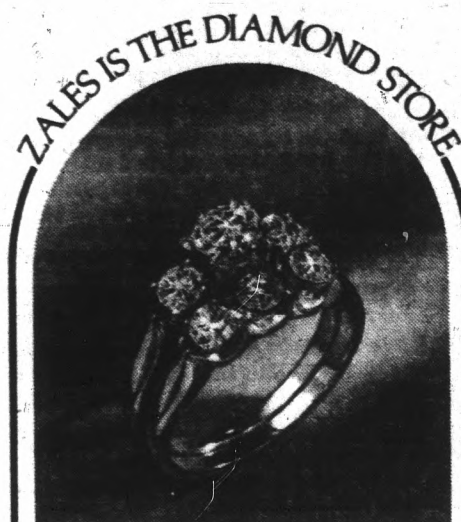

According to Ms. Whitney, the developer of 20 years ago merely put his plans before a governing body of a municipality and said, "Here's the way it's going to be."

side centers are definitely in jeopardy.

Pacifica in particular, he said, needs a center because the city is isolated from other services provided by the county.

"There are a lot of people here who don't have cars," he said. "Primary services are for the low income and the poor. These people don't have a way of supporting themselves."

Olivas said the Pacifica center alone handles about 1,700 calls a month, including assistance with everyday needs and referrals to other agencies.

It handles some 600 to 650 food stamp transactions a month and assists about 20 families a month with emergency food when welfare checks are late or workers have just lost their jobs.

Other services provided to Pacificans are free home insulation, a Christmas package program and swine flu vaccinations planned in the next month and a half.

Heath said some centers receive "in-kind" services from the cities in which they are located. The South San Francisco center and its maintenance is provided by the city.

One reason that appropriations from the board dropped this year is because the center representatives didn't present a very good case to the supervisors, Heath said.

Padreddi said the council shunned a professional screening committee in the early stages of selection although most cities in selecting new top administrators use that process.

Originally, a committee composed of three city managers from the Bay Area, Mayor Padreddi and Acting City Manager Frank Addiego were to form a committee to screen applicants.

Padreddi said the council decided to directly examine applications itself.

However, a screening committee may be used later in the selection process, Padreddi said.

Meanwhile, the city has an acting city manager, acting director of finance, acting public services director and acting city planner.

sanro to six months in County Jail.

In pronouncing his decision, the judge noted that emotions in the case have run higher than in most.

The sentence came 1,015 days after Fasanaro was indicted by the San Mateo County Grand Jury on charges of accepting a $10,000 bribe to use his then position as assistant superintendent of the San Mateo Community College District to influence the awarding of a $500,000 telephone systems contract. He was further indicted on a charge of accessory after the fact of grand theft.

Tuesday those charges were dropped. Fasanaro pleaded to the alternate charge earlier this month.

Courshon and Miss Scampini took turns painting different pictures of the 45-year-old Fasanaro, who was fired from his job as a result of the charges.

Courshon pictured Fasanaro as a public official who broke the public faith by arranging to accept a $10,000 bribe to influence the contract, and to consider going to work for Litton Business Telephone Systems, the winner of the award.

Conversely, Miss Scampini noted in emotional fashion that Fasanaro has consistently maintained that he accepted $10,000 to pay a debt incurred by the successful 1971 college district tax override.

County Moves On Import Tax

San Mateo County is hoping to collect $111,598 in taxes resulting from escaped assessments on imports during the period of 1972-75.

County Assessor Jack H. Estes has placed the assessments on the 1976-77 unsecured roll as the result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision nullifying exemptions on imported goods.

Subsequent to the court decision, the California State Legislature enacted a bill which exempted the escaped assessments.

However, Estes told the County Board of Supervisors this week, the constitutionality of this legislation is now being challenged in the courts. Until a decision is made, the assessments will remain enrolled and are due by Aug. 31, he noted.

Because the lump payment of taxes on four-year's escaped assessments would pose a severe hardship on several firms, Estes secured the approval of the Board of Supervisors to spread the payment over a three-year period.

Estes said that if the constitutionality of the state legislation exempting the escaped assessments eventually is upheld, the assessments would have to be deleted and any tax payments made would have to be refunded.

Pacifica Decides Census Project

Two North San Mateo County cities this week agreed to spend city funds on a State Department of Finance-conducted special census that they hope will ultimately yield additional operating revenue for the municipalities.

The City Councils of Millbrae and Pacifica Monday night unanimously voted to expend $13,000 and $21,200 respectively to participate in a special mid-decade state census.

Both cities anticipate that the census will show population increases over the 1970 federal census.

All cities receive state funds derived from motor vehicle license fees, highway, gasoline and cigarette taxes based on population.

Last week the city of South San Francisco and Monday night San Bruno voted not to join in the census. Both city councils agreed that the census was a gamble they did not wish to take.

Early this year all cities were asked by the county if they would participate in a census under the auspices of the county, which guaranteed the municipalities that over the next two years they would gain at least as much new revenue as it cost them to join in the census.

Most county cities agreed to participate, but last June the County Board of Supervisors abruptly decided to withdraw its offer because of budgetary constraints.

That decision left the cities with the option of foregoing the census or contracting individually with the state — this time with no investment guarantees.

The latter alternative is clearly a gamble. If the census shows that the population of a city has remained the same or has decreased since the federal census, then no portion of the census cost to the city would be recouped.

The Pacifica city staff advised the council that its own population estimates are between 1,000 and 3,000 persons higher than State Department of Finance estimates.

Pacifica's current population is reported at 39,160. The staff calculated the city would receive $16,800 in new state funds if the census showed 40,000 persons living in Pacifica; $36,800 for 41,000 inhabitants; and $56,800 for 42,000 persons.

Millbrae City Administrator Lee Horner told his council Monday that he expected the census to show a substantial increase in the city's population, due primarily to new housing tracts in the community.

He advised that the results of census would have about a six-year impact on city finances and would likely generate far more money for the city than it cost to participate.

Although San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford had recommended that the council join the census, he did stress that there were no guarantees the city would receive more revenue.

Minford said proposed new housing developments could bring some 700 persons to San Bruno, yielding about $16,000 in extra state funds each year. But he pointed out that since 1970, population per household has been declining annually "and there is no reason to suspect that it is not smaller now."

The city manager did note that the census would update social and economic characteristics of the community.

This information would be a definite asset in applications for federal and state funds and in general planning of community services," said Minford.

Frank Addeigo, South San Francisco acting city manager, recommended that the council delete from the budget a $26,000 appropriation for the special census, stating "I don't think there will be enough of a gain for the city in doing the census."

The council unanimously agreed.

Councilman Terry Mirri commented: "I can't conceive that there has been no increase in the population of this city with all the apartment buildings and new homes. But it's a $26,000 gamble to find out."

The State Finance Department hopes to launch the census locally in early October. Census takers will ask residents their age, sex, ethnic background plus 10 additional questions that will be submitted to the state from each city participating in the census.

Judge to 'Preside' Over Campaign Bid

McRobert L. Stewart, candidate for San Mateo County supervisor, has announced the appointment of the Honorable Frank Blum Sr. as general chairman of the McRobert Stewart for Supervisor campaign committee.

Stewart is running for election to the Fifth Supervisorial seat in November.

Blum is associated with the law offices of Hupf and Blum on Mission Street in Daly City.

He retired from the San Mateo County Superior Court bench after more than 20 years.

At the same time, Stewart announced the appointment of Edward King Sr., north county businessman and civic leader, as finance chairman of the Stewart for Supervisor committee.

County Tax Rate Is Up 16 Cents

A 1976-77 San Mateo County property tax rate of $1.8277 per $100 of assessed valuation was adopted this morning by the County Board of Supervisors.

The new tax rate, an increase of 16.33 cents over last year, will raise $43,549,709 of the record 1976-77 total county budget of $175,420,303.

County property owners who are served by the County Library System and in the county structural fire protection system will pay an additional 25.29 cents and 17.53 cents per $100 of assessed valuation respectively.

During budget deliberations in July, the Board of Supervisors trimmed $4.5 million in net county costs (financed by the property tax) from the budget recommendations of County Manager M. D. Tarshes.

The tax rate increase means that the owner of a $60,000 home will be paying $274.15 this year as the county portion of his property tax bill, an increase of $24.495 cents over last year.

The county's tax rate is only a portion of the property tax bill, which also includes city, school and special district taxes.

Tarshes said that the increase in the tax rate is "more than accounted for by the reduction in the county fund balance" which dropped by nearly $7.4 million because of the 25-cent slash in the county tax rate last year and required county contributions to Medi-Cal.

A tight budget and tax cutting lowers the fund balance, Tarshes commented, indicating that the property tax situation is going to worsen next year.

If it weren't for the fund balance reduction the tax rate would be dropping 12-cents instead of going up more than 16-cents, the county manager said.

Although the tax rate is up, it is still lower than the years of 1970 through 1974 when the rate ranged to a high of nearly $2.13.

Tarshes said that one cent on the tax rate this year raises approximately $260,000.

In an executive session prior to start of today's tax-setting meeting, the Board of Supervisors approved a compromise agreement with the Estero Municipal Improvement District which had filed suit several years ago seeking the return of $90,000 from the county in penalties on late-paid taxes for the portion of the taxes collected by the county for the district.

The board agreed to return $35,000 of the taxes and to enter a written agreement to collect the Estero land improvement taxes next year.

Public Silent On Center

Planning commissioners were astonished last Tuesday when no one showed up to question the environmental impact report for a major South San Francisco shopping center development.

The commission, however, had many questions of its own concerning plans to extend Gellert Boulevard and construct 13 different buildings along its path.

When Commission Chairman Wesley Slade asked for public comment, he got silence.

"There should be some comment coming from the general public," Slade said. "We're talking about a major development in the community."

After three hours of comments of its own, the commission continued its discussion until Sept. 28 when it will again seek public input.

The extension of Gellert will connect Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City to Shannon Drive in South San Francisco.

The City Council in 1972 formed an assessment district to finance that project.

The construction costs of that extension will be paid off by the tenants of 13 buildings tentatively planned by developer Tom Callan.

Among the buildings will be two department stores, four restaurants and seven professional and commercial buildings.

The tallest of the 13 buildings will be two professional office structures on the west side of Gellert — tentatively planned at four stories.

The street construction alone is expected to cost $1.4 million.

According to the EIR, approximately 1,114 persons will be employed in the 13 buildings at the end of construction in two to three years.

The development is expected to bring in $309,000 a year to South San Francisco and $10,300 annually to Daly City, where one restaurant will be located.

If six acres of adjacent unincorporated county land also is developed, it would probably generate $23,000 in sales tax revenue for the county, the EIR states.

Commissioners were particularly concerned about some of the unavoidable adverse impacts cited in the report, prepared by URS Research Co. of San Mateo.

The EIR states that the project probably will have an impact on traffic in the area, and the continued emphasis on automobiles will increase total air pollution.

"Construction exhaust and dust generation on the site may be significant for nearby, downwind residential areas," the EIR states.

Massive excavation is expected on the west side of Gellert. The fill will be placed in a depressed county land along Interstate 280.

Commissioner Roberta Teglia was concerned particularly about the dust the excavating will send flying through the wind in the Westborough area.

She said that several years ago Westborough homeowners sued a developer because of damage to their homes from dust. Such a situation should be avoided this time, she said.

Mrs. Teglia suggested that the developer be required to post bonds assuring his financial responsibility for any possible damage to property nearby homes.

Other commissioners said dust — encouraged by the Westborough winds — might travel as far as El Camino Real.

Civil Engineer Theodore Tronoff, retained by Callan for the design of the project — said some dust can be reduced by simply keeping the ground wet.

Commissioner Homer Hale questioned the safety of the buildings if an earthquake occurs and said the EIR should contain more seismic information.

Hale also said he wants to see the entire project — all 13 buildings — at one time and as soon as possible.

"We've been working on this for four years at least," he said. "I'd like to know. Do you have something or don't you?"

Acting City Planner Bill Costanzo also said that the city wants the shopping center developed as a single project — not 13 individual buildings.

Tronoff said the development will be in three phases and plans will be presented soon to the commission.

Commissioner Gene Mullin pointed out potential traffic congestion on Westborough Boulevard — one of the major streets Gellert intersects.

Unless it is mitigated it would be an extremely adverse outcome of this project," Mullin said.

However, the EIR author, Peter Lescure, said traffic impacts shouldn't be as bad as commissioners are expecting.

"If I had thought it would totally collapse the whole street network in that area, I would have said so," Lescure said.

Tronoff said only one tenant — K-Mart Department Store — has been definitely secured.

There are lots of other pending or tentative plans," Tronoff said.

Midway through the discussion, Commissioner Glen Mathewson asked why the EIR is even before the council when there is no applicant and no specific plans.

The project at this point, he said, is all theoretical.

"I'd just as soon go home," he said. "I don't go for that."

The applicant for the road, Costanzo said, is essentially the City Council, which formed the assessment district in 1972.

Free and Low-Cost Milk, Meal Programs for Jeff Explained

The Jefferson School District has announced its policy for free and reduced-price meals and free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

Children from families with a monthly gross income for all sources at or below the following levels shall be eligible for free meals, free milk and reduced price meals.

Family Size	Mo. Gross Income	Reduced Price Meals
1	$0 to $307	$308 to $478
2	0 to 403	404 to 628
3	0 to 498	499 to 777

Louanne Heath

The best way to have an exciting program and an active membership is to have enthusiastic leadership and a constant drive to enroll new members. With that axiom in mind the members of the Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Israel will begin their fall program with a membership tea for members and prospective members on Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. in the synagogue, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

Mrs. Myra Herpe, membership chairwoman is the tea coordinator, assisted by Mrs. Mina Bilick, Mrs. Jane Cannon, Mrs. Leone Graubart, Mrs. Judi Kane, Mrs. Mary Ann Mordakowicz, Mrs. Rosie Past, Mrs. Maureen Samson, Mrs. Harriette Shain and Mrs. Mimi Sorkin.

The program for the tea includes a fashion show, with dresses from the new "We Can Get It For You Wholesale" in Westlake.

More information is available to interested women who phone Mrs. Herpe, 992-3330 or Mrs. Mary Fuhs, the president of the sisterhood, 992-3847.

THE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS Aid Fund is the beneficiary of the 49th annual Policeman's Ball which will be held on Friday, September 24, in the San Mateo Elks Lodge.

Tickets to the ball, which will feature the Maury Wolohan Orchestra, are being sold for $2 per person and will be available at the door.

THE FRIENDS OF THE Daly City Library budget committee meet recently in the home of the president, Verna Teglia, to finish the summer program of special planning sessions.

Financial guidelines for 1976-77 was the subject discussed.

Present to help work out the details for the fall agenda were Mrs. Ethel Walter, Mrs. Virginia Tierney, Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach and Mrs. Olga Canada.

"Friends" treasurer, Mrs. Laura Schaapp, was unable to attend the meeting but sent a detailed analysis of the group's financial situation for the members to study.

The Friends of the Library will resume their regular schedule of monthly book reviews later this month, according to Mrs. Tierney, the publicity director.

LOU MARTIN, director of adult education for the Jefferson Union High School District, reports that the community adult education programs have been prepared and brochures have been mailed to local residents.

A wide variety of classes is being offered and eager students can learn such things as furniture refinishing, guitar, ethnic cooking, lamp craft or scuba diving by enrolling in the fall program.

For information about classes that are available and fees call the Jefferson Union High School district office.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy the principal in each school will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Nellie B. True, 101 Lincoln Ave., for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if a family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Cultural Fest Tops End-of-Summer Event

The Daly City Recreation Department culminated its summer playground program with a spectacular "Festival of Cultures" — American Style at Westlake Park.

The opening parade featured each of the 18 playground and park sites.

The day-long event included field games, a barbecue lunch, and craft booths for children of all ages.

All playgrounds will remain closed until the start of the fall program — date to be announced.

Chosen for the Driver's Seat

Stephen A. Robinson of San Francisco has been elected Chairman of the Backseat Driver Public Panel which will serve as a community advisory body to the Daly City office of the California Department of Motor Vehicles.

Other panel officers are the Rev. Gordon Wiebe, Secretary, and Richard Kay, alternate. They were elected by fellow panel members at a meeting Aug. 16, in the local DMV office.

The public is welcome to attend, Mr. Buchanan said.

The Daly City panel, whose members were appointed by Manager L. T. Buchanan following a call for volunteers early in July, is one of 89 community advisory bodies statewide, established at the urging of DMV Director Herman Sillas to assist department field offices in establishing and achieving local quality-of-service goals.

The next meeting of the panel is scheduled for Sept.

Trustee Does Her Part for Enrollments

Jane Powell, the Jefferson Union High School trustee, will become a grandmother twice over in the New Year.

That is the time her daughter — Mrs. Susie Wilson — and her son Steve and his wife are expecting babies. Mrs. Powell, the mother of 10, is also Daly City Recreation, Parks and Maintenance Commission chairwoman.

Nielsen Reflects on School Administration

By JANET PARKER

The word in educational administrative circles in 1963, Paul Nielsen recalls, was "If you think you're good, try South San Francisco."

Nielsen — then president of Fresno City College — accepted the challenge.

Yesterday, he retired as the unified school district's superintendent, leaving a community that has lived up to its reputation as a challenging place to earn a living.

"People have been good to me," he said. "Certainly they have been critical at times, but that's the name of the game."

A dinner will be held in his honor tonight in South San Francisco. Educational leaders from throughout the county are scheduled to attend.

With more than 14 years to his credit, Nielsen is one of the longest-serving school superintendents in San Mateo County.

But the length of service isn't what counts, he said, this week in the midst of tying up the loose ends.

"You can't measure success in terms of time. I hope quality of service is more important than time," Nielsen said.

More than 15,000 students from South San Francisco and small portions of San Bruno and Daly City attend the 21 SSFUSD campuses.

During his 14 years as superintendent, Nielsen has attended probably more than 500 Board of Trustees meetings — many of them packed to the rafters with taxpayers, students and teachers who take an active part in district affairs.

He's been jeered, heckled, laughed at and occasionally applauded — for $38,000 a year.

His pending departure has left mixed emotions with a Board of Trustees that has vigorously supported him and a teachers' union that has diligently opposed him.

"He's been a very humane person, very concerned with the welfare of his employees," said Board President Tom Henkle. "He's the type of guy that will never shrink from a decision. He has a tremendous amount of integrity."

"Every superintendent has to wear the black hat," Henkle said. "It's a job where it's very difficult to be popular. You've got to have somebody to be the fall guy for anything that goes wrong."

But just ask the leadership of the Classroom Teachers Association what they think.

"Dr. Nielsen has been threatened by change," said former CTA President Marjorie Pitkin. "He's felt things had to be status quo. He hasn't been able to face that things are changing."

"Since he came here in 1963, society has changed and the whole mode of teaching has changed. He can't accept that," Mrs. Pitkin said.

Nielsen says SSFUSD in the last 14 years indeed has been changing constantly.

"I'm resistant to change just for the sake of change itself," Nielsen said. "The record of the district speaks for itself."

The "3 R's," he said, are no longer the only focus of education, but the importance of reading, writing and arithmetic is being reemphasized.

"It's certainly true there is a trend toward the basics. Without them we wouldn't go anywhere," Nielsen said.

"If I had been too resistant to change, I would have been gone long ago," Nielsen said.

The tall, slender administrator saw the school district through the first teacher strike in its history. It was a bitter two-week confrontation in the spring of 1975.

During the strike, he was the target of petitions seeking his resignation — a drive that faded as quickly as it emerged.

Nielsen also saw the district through a period of significant educational evolution.

There was the 1972 law suit by a girl who wanted to be in an auto mechanics course and charged violations of the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution — a plight that made statewide headlines and television coverage.

There was the 1970 law suit by Citizens for Parental Rights challenging the constitutionality of family life education in public schools.

And, in 1969, there was an ardent plea by taxpayers for more special education programs in the schools.

But now, Nielsen said, he's focusing on his future. In a few weeks, he will be teaching in West Germany through arrangements with the University of Southern California — only a three-hour drive from his birthplace in Denmark. He'll teach in the schools of administration and law.

He has been a U.S. citizen since 1943.

"I am, in a sense, going home," Nielsen said.

While Nielsen is 3,000 miles away, his tie with the SSFUSD will be reasserted, probably sometime next year.

He plans to continue his $500,000 lawsuit against the CTA and the American Federation of Teachers, filed during the strike.

The suit alleges that teachers dumped garbage on the lawn of his San Bruno home, publicized his address and phone number leading to a disruption of his home life, and held the trustees and himself inside an administration building against their will during the strike negotiations.

He said he can't comment on the lawsuit or his decision to continue his pursuit of damages.

"It's really a matter of principle now," Nielsen said.

The superintendent is the first to admit his resignation may clear up long-standing differences between the school administration and the SSFCTA, the union to which more than 400 teachers belong.

"It will be good for the district to have a new face here," Nielsen said. "It should be good for the relations between the CTA and the board."

"It's been alleged rather vociferously that I'm the stumbling block, and if that's true the stumbling block will be gone," he said.

He regrets that the district did not achieve better working relations between teachers and administrators during his 14 years.

"The tenor of the times is such that this may not be attainable," he said. "We're put together as adversaries rather than people whose basic premise is to cooperate."

At fault, he said, is collective bargaining laws imposed on public schools this year.

"We've had an industrial type of bargaining situation imposed on education. I don't have faith in it," he said.

One of Nielsen's strongest critics — teacher Bob Gehl — has suggested many times that administrative positions — especially that of the superintendent — should be held by teachers who administer on a part-time basis.

Nielsen has leaned back in his chair at every other board meeting and listened to 10-minute speeches by Gehl blasting the administration.

He takes Gehl's suggestions, he said, as a tongue-in-cheek monologue, which he at one time called the "gospel and verse, according to Mr. Gehl."

"When all is said and done, somebody has to be in charge and somebody has to be accountable," Nielsen said.

"While a lot of people know the administration, the fact is that administration still is the process through which things get done," he said.

His own decision to return to teaching, he said, with a smile, could be in response to Gehl's repeated speeches.

"Mr. Gehl has said this for the last 13 years. He's finally convinced me," Nielsen said.

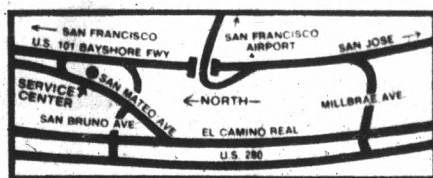

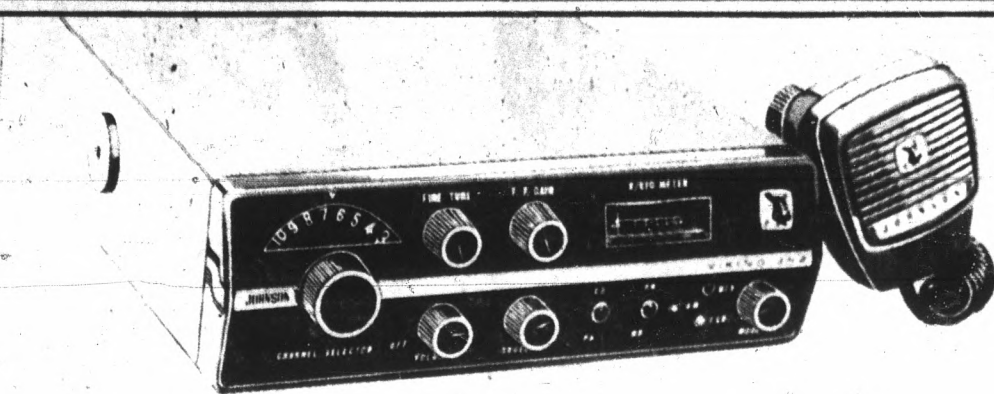

Nielsen insists that he alone accomplished nothing. Achievements are the work of groups — not individuals, he said.

He also isn't anxious to describe himself — his place in life outside the school district office.

"I really put all my eggs in one basket," Nielsen said.

He realizes there are those who applaud his imminent departure and welcome a fresh start.

"The decisions I made may not have been popular, but they are decisions I believe in," Nielsen said.

Westlake Concludes Olympics

Westlake Park climaxed an Olympic Summer by holding a Superstar-Decathlon Event. The 10 events ranged from running an obstacle course, to a hockey shoot, to a standing broad jump and when the dust cloud settled the results were very close.

In the 9-years and under bracket, Dennis Flannery took command on the eighth event, the football accuracy throw, to win a narrow victory over Eric Wittkamp and Gary Cole.

The 10-12 year bracket proved to be a battle between Kenny Addalla and Kevin Owens with the former pulling away in the last events. John Bell took third.

In the heavyweight division (12-14 year olds), Sol Murdock threw a softball in excess of 200 feet and never looked back although Don Fisher and Doug Abdalla finishing second and third respectively staged numerous comebacks.

Lisa Lou's all around skill enabled her to grab honors in the girl's division.

Hotshot: Twist on Old Game

Co-sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, the Pepsi-Cola Hotshot "game" is a new twist on a very familiar playground game.

Youngsters race against time to score as many points as possible shooting from five "Hotspots" marked on the court. It's fun to play, easy to score, and good recreation.

The competition is designed for youngsters between 9 and 18 years of age. Participants must be 9 years old or before May 1, 1976. There are three separate divisions for both boys and girls — 9-12 years, 13-15 years, and 16-18 years.

Contests will be held at all recreation sites during the week of Sept. 27 thru Oct. 1. Check with your neighborhood recreation leader for exact time and date of Hotshots at your playground.

Winners from each playground will be eligible to compete in the City Finals at the Westlake Community Center on Oct. 2, from 2-5 p.m.

Slo-Pitch League's Season Halts in DC

The Daly City Recreation Department sponsored Women's Slo-Pitch Softball League came to a conclusion last weekend with Jerry Byrd Trucking winning the title.

In the semi-final games, Jerry Byrd defeated a much improved Thunder Sophisticated Ladies 9-3 and the Blue Crystal 10-3, to gain the right to meet for the championship.

Jerry Byrd jumped to a 12-2 lead in the championship game but a nine-run sixth inning by the Sophisticated Ladies narrowed the gap to 12-11. Jerry Byrd added a run in the top of the seventh.

The Sophisticated Ladies fought back to load the bases in the bottom of the seventh, but they rally fell short. The typing and winning runs were left stranded at second and third base, as Jerry Byrd held on to win a very exciting game 13-12.

Red Tape Stalls 10 Apartments

A Pacifica contractor has been told by the City Council that he must have an environmental impact report before he can build a 10-unit apartment building in the Sharp Park area.

The council's decision left contractor Gil Andra dumbfounded and raised the ire of Councilman Nick Gust who opposed the decision.

"It's what your name is and who you know if you can get a project through this city," Gust said.

Andra plans to build at the corner of Hilton Way and Hilton Lane.

The Planning Commission in July approved a negative declaration — a statement that an environmental impact report is not required for this particular project because it is not expected to have any adverse environmental effects.

However, a Sharp Park resident, John Curtis, appealed that decision to the City Council.

Citing sections of the California Environmental Quality Act, Curtis said the project will indeed have an effect on the environment and a report should be required.

"A negative declaration is totally inappropriate on this project," Curtis said.

"There is a large body of opinion that considers the traffic and aesthetic impacts of this project adverse," he said.

He argued that the commission had approved the negative declaration without ever seeing specific plans for the project.

"Such an action is, to say the least, irresponsible and makes a mockery of the environmental impact review process," Curtis said.

The apartment complex, he said, will be located next to the city's old Hunting Lodge and "it is obscene to stick up a four-story stucco and cedar shake tenement next door," he said.

A major impact, he said, will be additional traffic on the two streets.

"By allowing this monstrosity to be built, the city would commit the surrounding area to conversion to very high-density residential," Curtis said.

The council's decision came after a brief discussion. The council chose to hear the case "on the record" meaning that only the Planning Commission documents would be studied and additional public testimony would not be accepted.

Several Sharp Park residents protested that procedure. Curtis called it a "shuck job."

Planning Commissioner Ellie McGuire said the commission was well aware of the project proposed when the negative declaration was approved.

County to Coordinate Inspections

Seven San Mateo County cities and 13 private water companies have agreed on a program of county inspection of cross-connections in water and sewage lines.

The county administration of the program, which will be financed by the participating agencies, was approved this week by the Board of Supervisors.

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett told the board that the aim of the program is to detect and prevent the mechanical failure which allows unsafe water to cross into safe water systems.

Pickett cited the instance of several years ago when runoff from a North County carwash backed up into the water supply of homes in the vicinity.

He defined a cross-connection as any physical connection or arrangement between two otherwise separate piping systems, one of which contains potable water, and the other water of unknown or questionable safety, whereby water may flow from one system to the other, the direction of flow depending upon pressure differential between the two systems.

Forestalls Man's Arrest

An 80-pound mongrel refused to budge early this week when Daly City police tried to arrest his 17-year-old master.

The mixed German Shepherd/Golden Retriever held three policemen, who were attempting to apprehend the youth after he allegedly cursed at a passing police car, at bay for almost two hours.

The incident began about 1 a.m. when the unidentified youth allegedly shouted at officer Mike McVay, who was driving past the intersection of School and Mission streets.

McVay stopped and started to approach the boy, the leashed dog snarled and lunged at the officer.

McVay backed off and called for assistance. Soon, Sgt. Ken Cole and officer Lee Jett arrived on the scene and the trio of law enforcement officers approached the youth.

The dog snarled, growled and lunged again.

And the three officers backed off, preferring to discuss the matter with the dog handler at a distance.

Finally, the officers persuaded the boy to get into the rear seat of a patrol car.

The youth cooperated and entered the car — with the dog climbing in and sitting down beside him.

When the police arrived at the Daly City jail, the process was repeated.

New Bus Service Starts September 7

Fall bonuses and new bus service direct to HARRAH'S RENO starts September 7. A round trip fare is $17.50 and you receive a generous bonus upon your arrival at Harrah's. Daily departures from the Sunset District, Park Merced and San Francisco Greyhound Depot. A low cost bus fare to Lake Tahoe is $14 round trip, plus bonus. Daily departures from the Serramonte Shopping Center, San Francisco American Tours and San Francisco Greyhound Depot. Group charter service is also available. The "Early Dinner Specials" have been returned to DAMATO'S SHIRT TAIL in Palo Alto by popular demand. Featured from 5 to 7 p.m. only, Mondays through Fridays, they offer menus which change weekly (from $3.95). Soup or salad, vegetable, French bread, dessert and beverage are all included in the extremely popular dinners. A complete seafood and Italian menu, plus prime rib, steaks and other American fare are also available. PHIL LEHR'S WELLINGTON ROOM, Taylor and Ellis Parking Lot entrance, in San Francisco, widely famed for its steaks, has added many new specialties to its dinner menu. Two of these, Baby Spring Lamb and Fresh Salmon, both baked in a delicious pastry shell to a golden brown, are among the most popular, new specialties. Still waiting for a report from ENRICO ROMANO as to when he plans another hunting safari. One thing for sure, he doesn't have to hunt for business. His ROMANO'S Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach never lacks for customers. Special tip of the week: Prime ribs of beef dinner at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City is "as you like it." Includes soup or tossed green salad, baked potato, dessert and beverage.

Finocchio's Revues Are Star Studded

CARROLL WALLACE, master of ceremonies in the lavish revues at world famous FINOCCHIO CLUB, San Francisco, celebrated his thirtieth year in show business. Make a date to see these show stopper performers, whose singing, dancing and comedy acts are extraordinary. Finocchio's opens at 8 p.m., and the one-hour shows are four times nightly (except Monday), 9, 10:20, 11:40 p.m. and 1 a.m. The recently opened STELLA BLUE TAVERN, located on Old County Road in Belmont, is the first business venture of two friendly gents, STEVE GERSTLE and LESLIE BRINKLEY. They report that they have the largest beer selection on tap of any tavern in the Bay Area, plus a selection of nine wines. If you like wine cocktails, try their Margarita or Mai Tai. The real house specialty is Beer Steamed Garlic Sausage Sandwiches. Live entertainment will be featured on weekends. Open 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. daily. Go on down to the EAGLES Lounge Friday for their live country music. The dancing is relaxed and the drinks well fortified. THE CLASSIC EDITION opened Tuesday night at THE TAILWINDS in Belmont. The four-man group is booked to a limited engagement, so enjoy their brand of Latin, swing, rock and boogie during their stint here. Even hard-working restaurant managers slip away from their establishments once in a while. Seen last Sunday enjoying a leisurely brunch at the HOLIDAY INN, South San Francisco, TONY LICATA and his family, Tony, now the guiding force behind VINCE'S ITALIAN AND SEAFOOD restaurant in San Mateo, is quite a 49er fan.

Barney's and South Tahoe Nugget Plans?

Future business rumble in the South Lake Tahoe area: Could be that popular BARNEY'S CLUB may add a third story to their casino. Since the advent of many new machines and the restaurant section, business has been so brisk that space is at a premium. If this happens, Barney's will be on the "Big Apple Casino Circuit." The sister club, SOUTH LAKE TAHOE NUGGET, also has blueprint ideas which, if and when they are put into action, will rate equal billing with Barney's. Club owners ELIZABETH CHARTRAND and ROBERT BERRY are at the helm of both promotions. Rumor has it that big changes are in store for THE CASTAWAY on Coyote Point. The management is planning a unique happening in local restaurant circles. Look for more details in next Friday's "Bright Lights." Warm weather is bringing crowds of afternoon and evening diners to NICK GUST'S Rockaway Beach restaurant "acres." Our good friend Nick has three oceanside restaurants to serve you—NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER and CAPTAIN CHARLES. Illumination of Pacifica's breakers dashing to shore is a romantic after-dark sight for diners. The Tri Sounds, John Gentili, drums; Tom Lucia, bass guitar, and Jack Bailey on lead guitar, went over so big when they opened at Bayhill Lounge in San Bruno last March that Owners Harry Curis and Mel Cicero signed the trio to a contract which extends through New Year's Eve.

Garbage Strike Still On

Daly City's garbage strike is still on with little hopes for a quick settlement, representatives on both sides of the dispute said this week.

Thursday negotiators from the Daly City Scavenger Co. and Local 350, Sanitary Workers and Helpers Union, met before Federal Mediator Tom Curdie for about two hours in the hope of bringing an end to the strike now entering its fifth week.

Some progress was made in the talks, Curdie announced late Thursday, but he did not elaborate. Nor did he say whether the headway concerned wages or fringe benefits.

The last offer made by the scavenger company was for a 61 cent per hour pay raise during the contract's first year and 56 cents for each of the next two years. Also, a 10-cent per hour cost of living pay hike, additional sick time and time off were offered.

The union had initially demanded, among other things, a $1 per hour pay hike for each of the three years.

They have modified their stand on wages downward in recent weeks.

Scavenger employees now make $6.17 per hour.

Other matters being negotiated are overtime pay, shop stewards, seniority and pensions.

Leader in Lettuce

California leads all other states in the production of alfalfa seeds, almonds, apricots, artichokes, asparagus, avocados, beeswax, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cantaloupes, carrots, cauliflower, celery, chili pepper, cut flowers, dates, eggs, figs, garlic, grapes, honey, honeydews, ladino clover seed, lemons, lettuce, lima beans, nectarines, nursery stock, olives, onions, oriental vegetables, peaches, pears, Persian melons, persimmons, plums, pomegranates, potted plants, prunes, rabbits, strawberries, spinach, safflower, sugar beets, processing tomatoes and walnuts.

FOOD SUPPLIERS

The California Farm Bureau points out that our state's agriculture keeps one-twelfth of the world's population supplied with food. Or, to put it another way, one-twelfth of the world's population would starve to death without California agriculture.

Fame Isn't in the Stars

Le Pacini

Fans, you see before you a column of such potential originality and cleverness as to boggle the mind, and perhaps even several more private parts of the body. Simultaneously, you see before you a quintessential example of how potential is only as good as performance, a hard lesson the Giants have learned this year.

After watching one of those talk shows dealing with astrology during the week of Hall of Fame inductions, the juxtaposition of these two subjects locked on what is left of my brain and the thought struck that it would make a great column to investigate what Zodiac signs produce the greatest players: what signs produce the best left-handed pitchers, the best catchers, and so on.

In my imagination it began to grow into a book — volumes of books: a different volume for each position — perhaps even one for switch-hitters.

So the task began, as the birth dates of all Hall of Fame members were assiduously researched. The results were astounding.

It doesn't make a damned bit of difference under which sign one is born if he wants to be a Hall of Famer. In fact, being born is apparently the only qualification. If this were a purely scientific study, the guess is that the conclusion would properly read, "inconclusive."

Oh, it could possibly be concluded that a Taurus has twice the potential as a Gemini, or even three times the potential of an Aquarius, but, as that scientist would say, the sampling just isn't large enough or conclusive enough to hypothesize.

Of the members of The Hall who were active players, but not including those inducted in recent years from the old Negro leagues (there weren't enough available dates on those players), here is how the Zodiac signs line up: Taurus (14), Virgo (13), Pisces (12), Capricorn, Scorpio, Libra, Cancer (11), Sagittarius, Aries (10), Leo (9), Gemini (7), Aquarius (5).

As can be seen, no reliable pattern develops. Nothing developed in a breakdown of lefties, righties, positions, or anything else, either.

Of the 41 pitchers in the Hall, there are 13 lefties, which is just about the normal ratio of southpaw pitchers, with probably a shade to the left side as far as The Hall is concerned. But again, nothing dramatic.

If there is one bright side to this failure to produce an original, clever column item, it is that your author's sign, Virgo, did so well. On the other hand, that isn't such a bright side, either. Here I had the advantage of a close runner-up Zodiac sign, and never made it.

BUT ON TO A SIGNIFICANT SUBJECT, like the hamburgers at Candlestick. I have hesitated to offer my comprehensive evaluation previously, because I don't believe in turning in a scouting report on the basis of just one or two observations, or, in this case, digestions.

Consistency, as we all know, is the only true test of greatness. So now, after several orders of Candlestick hamburger and fries, I am ready.

They are delicious. They not only actually have meat in them, which is often unusual under present-day hamburger standards, but it is a full third of a pound, as advertised.

Options with the meat sandwich are mustard (not too hot), onions, and sweet relish, the latter of which comes encased in neat little plastic pouches, which, if you are a cheapskate, makes them easy to sneak up your sleeve for home use. Unlike automobile options, the latter are all part of the entire package, making Candlestick hamburgers sort of the Volvos of the concession world.

The onions are especially good. I know that because it took a full day to digest them. If onions don't give you indigestion, they are not true onions. Onions without indy would be like garlic without people giving you the whole back of the bus.

Another improvement over the hamburgers of previous years is the service, which is no longer erratic. Under the old regime, the hamburger stand was open only during days of reasonably large attendance, which gives you an idea of how often hamburgers were served.

In fact, the opening of the stand was such an occasion that the combination of a large attendance and people who had shown up during small attendance days and had been disappointed, therefore having their taste buds teased and now desperate for a ball game hamburger, often created such stupendous lines for the small work crew behind the counter that some people missed as much as two or three innings before they were served, thus cooling their enthusiasm for the game — and the hamburgers. But now service is a model of consistency, and lines no longer tedious.

We owe all of this to Bob Lurie, who can be seen frequently hanging around the hamburger stand (when the other team is at bat, of course), checking the service and quality control.

There wasn't a lot he could do with the team this year, but he recognized where an improvement could be made immediately, and he upgraded the Candlestick hamburger situation, sensationally.

Ah, if only baseball players were hamburgers and you wise guys cut it out. I know what the next line is, and I ain't gonna use it.

WHAT THE A'S ARE DOING on the base paths this year is truly amazing, especially in an era which emphasizes not getting on bases, but going around them. Consider that as we write this the A's are eighth in the AL in hitting, and among the top three in home runs.

This means that not only do they still try for the big hit, but that they aren't getting on base an awful lot. Still, they steal bases in inordinate numbers.

But don't get excited, Oakland fans, because base stealing, historically, has little to do with winning pennants. About five years ago your humble columnist did a piece for a national magazine in which we checked back as far as baseball records have been kept in order to draw an historical pattern and determine what the major components have been for pennant winners.

It was discovered that the best formula over the years has been good pitching combined with slugging — not just "hitting" but slugging. Home runs. Plenty of them.

It was also discovered that pitching may not be quite as important as most experts seem to think it is, and that speed is not nearly as important as many imagine. So perhaps the A's should concentrate more on getting Catfish Hunter and Kenny Holtzman and Reggie Jackson back, rather than on stealing bases.

EXPERTS INSIST ON CALLING Cincinnati pitching suspect, but as of now the Reds, along with the Dodgers, have the third best staff ERA in the NL, and in fact Red pitchers have more K's and fewer walks, more shutouts and more saves than Dodger pitchers.

Another surprise. Aside from Houston, the Giants have more staff shutouts than any team in the majors, and are only one behind the Astros, at that!

Also surprising is that Randy Jones leads the majors in complete games, which, since the DH rule in the AL, has been a category in which an AL pitcher has led exclusively.

And if I may have the luxury of being ethnic for a moment, when Norm Sherry took over as manager of the Angels recently, he became only the second Jewish manager in baseball history — the other being the late Lefty Phillips, also of California — putting the Jews ahead of the Blacks by only one.

JESD Adopts Budget For 1976-77 Term

Trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District adopted a 1976-77 budget Friday that includes a 10-cent permissive tax over-ride, as well as a directive to the San Mateo County superintendent of schools to tax the district to full capacity.

The trustees' decision to levy the maximum legal tax rate allowable under current revenue limits comes, at least in part, from a nine per cent decrease in state funding, due to declining enrollment, and a five per cent decrease in county funding — leaving little alternative but to cut more programs or turn to the local taxpayers.

It will be one or two weeks before the district will know what the tax rate will be, or, until the State Board of Equalization passes on its estimate of assessed valuation of utility companies to the county superintendent of schools who then can compute an estimated tax rate figure and notify the district.

It should be noted, however, that all district tax rates are considered estimates until they receive the approval of the county controller and, ultimately, the county board of supervisors.

The permissive tax over-ride is expected to bring in 10-cents per $100 of assessed valuation or $133.195 in revenue to fund the district's meals for needy pupils program and the community services account.

The JESD final budget for 1976-77 is estimated at $13,610,185 which is up five per cent or $657,256 over last year's budget figure of $12,952,926.

Total expenditures are estimated to increase by some eight per cent or $980,692 although income has increased by only six per cent or $729,829. A reserve of $2,000 is planned for 1977-78.

Trustees had to approve some last minute 1975-76 budgetary transfers to adjust $168,000 in deficiencies appearing in the classified salaries, employee benefits, contracted services, building sites and new equipment accounts. At the same time, $158,000 in overages to certificated salaries, books, supplies, equipment and other outgo accounts had to be adjusted and transferred.

According to Chairman Beverly Forrester and Trustees Dorothy Adams and David Parker, these transfers should have been presented to the board for approval as they occurred, but pointed to administrative oversight as the reason this was not done.

Bank Files for Money Back;

With Interest

Crocker National Bank has filed suit against a South San Francisco businessman, alleging that the man must repay $34,000 which purportedly was credited to his account by accident.

Suit was filed in San Mateo County Superior Court against Edward E. Weinfield, described only as a businessman in South City.

According to the suit, the bank erroneously credited $39,000 to Weinfield's custodial account on Jan. 5. Nine days later, he closed his account and allegedly withdrew all of the funds.

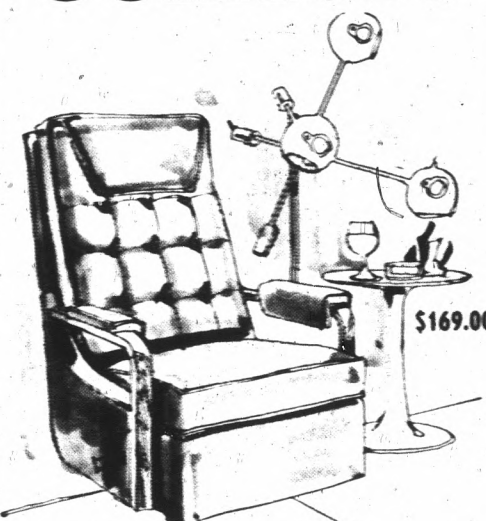

The suit alleged that Crocker informed Weinfield of the situation on March 5, and that he paid $5,000 to the bank on April 4.

But the balance has not been paid and Weinfield has no legal right to it, the suit alleged.

Furthermore, the bank is asking that a judge order Weinfield to pay seven per cent interest on the disputed $34,000.

Ingredients mixed wrong previously Mexicali Meat Pie Again

Good morning, good cooks.
Today is the day to reprint a recipe for Mexicali Meat Pie that appeared in this space recently. Somehow in the trip from typewriter to newspaper the methods and ingredients were stirred around, making the recipe difficult to read and prepare.

MEXICALI MEAT PIE

6 slices bacon
1 lb. ground beef
1 cup (8-oz. can) drained whole kernel corn
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup corn meal
1/2 teaspoon each oregano, chili powder, salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
Fry the six slices bacon until crisp. Break into large pieces. Chill one-third cup bacon drippings until firm. Brown the pound ground beef in large skillet; drain off fat. Stir in the one cup corn, fourth cup each green pepper, chopped onion and corn meal, half teaspoon each oregano, chili powder and salt, one-eighth teaspoon garlic powder and eight ounces tomato sauce.

Nell Norton

Prepare pie crust. Pour the meat mixture into pastry lined pan. Bake in 425-degree oven for 25 minutes. Remove from oven. Spread prepared topping over pie. Return to oven for 5 minutes.

TOPPING

1 egg
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
4 stuffed olives, sliced
Combine the one egg, fourth cup milk, half teaspoon each dry mustard, Worcestershire sauce and salt and the one and one-half cups cheese. Spread on top of pie. Top with bacon and sliced olives. Return to oven and bake for 5 minutes longer or until cheese melts.

Let stand for 10 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

PIE CRUST

1 cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons corn meal
1/3 cup bacon drippings, or other shortening
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water
Combine the one cup flour with two teaspoons corn meal. Cut in one-third cup bacon drippings until mixture is size of small peas. Sprinkle with 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water while stirring and tossing with fork. Form into ball. Flatten to half-inch thickness, smooth edges. Roll out between two pieces of waxed paper to circle 1 1/4 inches larger than 9-inch pie pan. Fit into pan. Fold edge to firm standing rim. Flute.
